DEATH ENDS CAREER OF W. H. TAFT

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Just a reminder to some of you who are not satisfied with California conditions. Although we had a severe rain recently, we did not have a flood like they had in France. And, although a heavy wind followed the rain, we didn't have the tornado which hit some of the southern states.

Charles Lindbergh, peer of fliers, learned a few days ago that knowing how to steer an airplane doesn't necessarily mean that one can ride anything that moves. Lindbergh took a nasty tumble from a polo pony. Those in the know will probably whisper in your ear that Lindbergh probably picked the hardest horse in the world for an amateur to ride. Polo ponies are highly trained and a pressure of the leg or slight twitch on the reins means a multitude of things to the sensitive horse flesh. Amateur riders take heed—if you want to learn how to ride don't start with a polo pony.

This glory that lives for a day. A few short years ago Fay Lanphier was heralded as beauty queen of the universe. Fat contracts were offered her and the world was at her feet. But Fay ate a little too well and not very wisely. Now, according to reports from Los Angeles, she is pounding the keys of a typewriter as a stenographer, while she is reducing and awaiting an opportunity to get another movie contract.

Every dog has his day. Take the case of some valuable puppies owned by a San Francisco automobile dealer. The dogs became ill at a hunting lodge in Glenn county. The distracted owner sent a private airplane to San Francisco to fetch a veterinarian in whom he had a great deal of confidence.

One by one the army and navy is losing its famous fliers. Word has just been received from Washington that the resignation of Lieut. Alford J. Williams has been approved. Williams has resigned from the navy so that he can give his entire attention to developing a fast plane. Seems to us that the navy should be able to use the fastest plane in the world and might encourage the talented young flier who has flown faster than any other American citizen.

They still happen once in a while, and maybe not often enough. Eleven men have just been arrested in Michigan for putting on a tar and feather party.

It is conservatively estimated that a war on fake stocks and bonds in the state during the last year has saved citizens no less than one million dollars. And that is a very conservative figures, because some of the doubtful ones managed to slip through loopholes in the law.

It was only a small bowl which fell to the floor but it cost Edsel Ford a matter of $50,000. The object of art known as the Rhages bowl was reported to have been dropped by a workman in the Ford home.

Man Injured In Machine Crash

J. V. Roberts of Colfax, suffered cuts on the hands and face and a dislocated rib when his car turned over on San Pablo avenue in the town of San Pablo last night.

Roberts was brought to the emergency hospital and the wounds on his head were treated.

Two hours later he was found wandering in a dazed condition by Richmond police and was again taken to the hospital to be treated for the rib injury.

J. B. Baldwin, local real estate and insurance man has moved his office from 325 Sixth street to 345 Sixth street. The new location is opposite the post office.

ALL NATION MOURNS LOSS

WASHINGTON, March 8.—UP—William Howard Taft, twenty-seventh president of the United States, and tenth chief justice, died here today. He was 72 years old.

Death was due to a general breakdown resulting from overwork and grief, which caused him to leave the supreme court early in January and resign his chief justiceship Feb. 3.

Friend Dies

His condition took a turn for the worse only a few hours after his successor as chief justice, Charles Evans Hughes, took the oath of office Monday. The death of the former president and chief justice came only five hours after that of his colleague on the bench, Associate Justice Edward Sanford, who died suddenly at his home here a few blocks from the Taft home.

Taft showed improvement early this week, but became worse today though it was not thought he was in immediate danger. He made a valiant battle for life.

After he returned here from Cincinnati, broken by the death of his brother, he was forced to relinquish his duties of administering the supreme court, a task he performed with brilliance for eight and a half years. He went to Garfield hospital here for a week's rest, and then to Asheville, N. C. resort in a vain effort to recover his strength.

Heart Overstrained

The heart which carried him thru so many years of active life was overstrained, however, and he realized at Asheville that he would never be able to resume his work on the supreme court. He sent his son to deliver his formal resignation to President Hoover, who accepted with regret, and named Charles Evans Hughes as successor.

On his arrival here Feb. 4, he was very weak, but still courageous, smiling his famous smile even

S. F. LAUNCHES PROBE OF VICE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—UP—Painting a graphic picture of sordid vice conditions allegedly flourishing in the downtown hotel district of San Francisco, Police woman Kathryn Sullivan today inaugurated a campaign against operators of hotels, said to be contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Cooperation of the chief of police and the detective bureau were promised Mrs. Sullivan when she revealed information that young girls, the majority of them runaways from home, were given shelter in hotels and men were permitted to visit them, contrary to law.

The case of a 14 year old girl taken to a hotel by a youth who kept her there for some time with the knowledge of the management, was said by Mrs. Sullivan to be typical of many similar instances.

Several arrests were anticipated during the course of the campaign.

Another evil noted by the policewoman was the permitting of young girls to stay at the hotels until their funds were exhausted, to be faced with ejection to the streets, with their baggage held for security.

Monoxide Fumes Overcome Girls

MARTINEZ, Mar. 8—Lucy Martin, six, was asphyxiated and her sister, Isabelle, five, was overcome today by gasoline fumes from the exhaust of an automobile in which they were riding from Chico to Oakley.

The children were under a robe in the back seat of the car and the death of one girl and the plight of another was not discovered until the family reached Sacramento.

The children were riding with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Martin.

Long Career Ends

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT, twenty-seventh president of the United States and tenth chief justice who died early yesterday afternoon. He was in his seventy-second year of life and had been suffering from a general breakdown for several months.

U. S. JUSTICE SANFORD DIES

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8—(U.P.)—Tragedy touched heavily upon the supreme court today. Death came suddenly to Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford, shortly before noon at his home here only a short distance from the quiet home where his colleague and former chief, William Howard Taft, lay slowly dying.

The 64-year old jurist, a native of Tennessee, collapsed while at his dentist's where he had called at 9:45 this morning because of a toothache. He was removed to his home and he died two hours later. Death was attributed to acute uremic poisoning by his physician, Dr. Lawn Thompson, who was summoned hurriedly to the dentist's office. It was a great shock to his colleagues, who had considered him in robust health. They received the news at their regular Saturday business conference at the capitol during which they had congratulated the dean of the

BOYS ADMIT CAUSING BLAST

Two mystery blasts which have occured in Richmond during the last week were explained yesterday with the confession by three youths that they had caused the explosions.

The boys, all minors, told police that they had stolen several sticks of 20 percent dynamite, a roll of fuse and a box of caps from a powder magazine in the Mira Vista section.

On Wednesday night, four sticks of the dynamite were fastened together and exploded at the foot of Fifth street. On Thursday night one stick was placed against a telephone pole on Roosevelt avenue near Twelfth street and set off. The blast rocked the neighboorhood and started a police investigation.

In making their confession yesterday the three youths told investigating officers that they were trying to scare the girl friend of one of the group who lived in the vicinity.

One of the youths is reported to be a student of chemistry and familiar with the handling of explosives. This is possibly the only thing that prevented a serious accident, according to investigating officers.

All of the youths will be turned over to the district attorney and county probation officer Monday.

PARALYSIS FOUGHT BY 300 RUM VICTIMS

PHYSICIANS BAFFLED BY EPIDEMIC

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 8.—UP—A poor man's drink brought despair and suffering to more than 300 persons here tonight.

No relief was promised victims of a strange paralysis that followed the drinking of poison "jake" a cheap, highly intoxicating drug.

Although no deaths had occured the number of cases were increased by late reports from physicians.

Efforts to locate the source of the jamaica ginger which authorities say caused the widespread malady were futile. After analyzing many samples seized in raids and taken from drug stores, City Chemist Clifford said he had found no trace of poison. Authorities said however, that they had information that a "bad shipment" had been sent from Kansas City and St. Louis warehouses.

Tests Made

Medical specialists worked frantically with tests to locate the cause of the affliction that rendered useless the arm and leg muscles of its victims. No trace of infection had been found in a hundred tests of spinal fluid.

The malacy appeared to be of a more serious nature, however with some of the victims. Physicians reported the legs of several turned purple, others had large red splotches. Feet and hands of the victims were numb and cold, although there seemed to be no pain.

Those who drank "jake" were apparently unaffected for ten days and health authorities feared new cases would break out over the week-end.

Not Meningitis

State and city health officers denied that the paralysis was a form of spinal meningitis. Dr. Calvin Cooper, Kansas City health direc-

ART INJURED MAE CHARGES

LOS ANGELES, March 8.—UP—Mae Murray noted stage and screen star, today became the principal in one of the largest suits in motion pictures when she started a $1,750,000 action against Tiffany Productions, Inc.

Miss Murray charged the film corporation with breach of contract, fraud and negligence and injury to her professional reputation.

According to Miss Murray's suit the corporation and herself entered into a contract to produce eight motion pictures. She declared that only one, a production called 'Peacock Alley' had been made and she asserted that "Peacock Alley" was an "artistic failure."

The actress asserted that the defendant failed to make use of her talents and had subjected her to ridicule, humiliation and injury of professional reputation.

Pantages Loses Another Appeal

LOS ANGELES, March 8.—UP—Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire theater man, remained in the county jail here tonight, having lost another effort to gain freedom on bail while he carries his conviction of assaulting a dancing girl to the higher coorts.

The court of appeal refused to give the showman his liberty on his plea that he was suffering from heart attacks and that his further confinement in jail might mean death.

Pantages is fighting against a sentence of one to 50 years in prison as the result of conviction on a charge of assaulting Eunice Pringle, 17, when she called at his office in an attempt to book her dancing act on his vaudeville circuit. Miss Pringle recently brought a $1,000,000 civil suit against the theater magnate.

Arsonist Hunted In Paper Mill Blaze

ANTIOCH, March 8.—A state wide search for a firebug who is believed to have set fire to a huge stack of waste paper at the Antioch plant of the Fireboard Products company early this morning, was instituted by police today.

Officials of the plant made no estimate of the damage done by the fire, but it is believed that it was in excess of $15,000.

A theory that the fire had been started by spontaneous combustion was scouted by Sheriff R. R. Veale.

That this morning's fire was the work of an arsonist is given further credence by the fact that it occurred within a fortnight of the removal of a special detail of night watchmen who have been guarding the plant since Christmas.

Gypsy Woman Will Face Theft Charge

MARTINEZ ,March 8.—Charged with the theft of $1000 from her brother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Thompson, a gypsy, is being returned here from Visalia to stand trial.

According to the complaint, Mrs. Thompson stole the money from her brother-in-laws tent in the San Pablo gypsy camp while the owner was in Richmond purchasing supplies.

The woman was found in Visalia and was placed under arrest. She is being brought here by Deputy Sheriff Steve Neilsen.

According to police reports, Mrs. Thompson's marriage certificate is attached to a bill of sale of herself from her father to her present husband for $3000 in accordance with the gypsy procedure.

Mystery Crowning Of Queen By Gypsies

Today, perhaps, a Gypsy queen will be crowned in the encampment of gayly bedecked rovers.

Last night, it was rumored, a young couple was united in marriage, according to the laws and customs of the tribe. But, as usual, members of the tribes refused to talk to the outlanders; their secrets are sacred and not open to prying eyes.

Despite the fact that the tribes now travel in high powered automobiles, and their camps are equipped with the latest tourists needs, they retain their old customs that were handed down many years before Christ when the ancestors of the present tribes moved out of India and started their endless trek.

Through mysterious signs and signals tribes in all parts of the United States were invited to attend the gala event. Several weeks ago the dark wanderers started to gather in this vicinity. Some pitched their tents in San Pablo, and the majority started its camp near Pinole.

One family has rented a house in Richmond, which is almost unprecedented. But they shall probably not stay here long, for Gypsy legends say that to live in a house for a length of time means death.

Tomorrow, the next day, perhaps next week, who knows, the camps will mysteriously disappear. A year later, perhaps another roving band of Gypsies, driving their high powered automobiles, will camp in the same site. Here, they will find written in mysterious Gypsy code, a message:

"Today our queen was crowned. Come, rejoice with us."

Two Arrested In Garbage Fight

OAKLAND, Mar. 8—Supplementing his action of seeking an injunction against the Oakland Scavenger company, E. P. Mayer of the Contra Costa Hog company today caused the arrest of two Oakland company garage collectors for the second time in less than a week.

Attacking the legality of the Mayer contract, and seeking an injunction to restrain him from interfering with its collection of dry garbage and wet garbage in less than 50-gallon lots, the Oakland Scavenger company prepared to day to battle the case through the superior court with a cross complaint.

The arrested men, Elmer Adams and Floyd Westall, were taken into custody on order of William E. Mayer, brother of E. P. Mayer, charged with violating the city ordinance which gave Mayer exclusive right to collect wet garbage in lots of 50 gallons or more.

Raymond Salisbury, attorney for the Oakland company, declared he would fight the charges against the two collectors, who have been released on receipt of $50 bail each.

Mayer applied to the superior court in February for an injunction, charging the Oakland Scavenger company with collecting wet garbage which rightfully belonged to him under his contract with the city, and for which he pays the city a minimum of $2000 a month.

The scavenger company, in its cross complaint, charges the Mayer contract is illegal on the grounds that it was let without competitive bidding and constitutes a "franchise" rather than a "contract."

County Wards Leave Home To Visit Mother

Violetta Stamatoulas, 11, and her sister, Demetris, 9, are fond of their mother and care nothing for court orders, with the result that Richmond police were recently notified the children had been kidnaped. The children were reported missing by their guardian Mrs. Mabel Sisson, 1354 Twenty-third street when they failed to return from school Friday.

Denying to Dr. Thomas A. Boyer, county probation officer that she had kidnaped the children, their mother, Mrs. Mary Stamatoulos of San Francisco, declared the children had boarded a ferry and made their way to her home.

Mrs. Sisson has been caring for the children since last July, according to Dr. Poyer. The probation officer declared the children have been wards of the superior court the last four or five years due, Dr. Boyer said, to the "complicated" marital status of the mother, who has been married twice.

Dr. Boyer said he was doubtful as to the authenticity of the mother's story that the children came to her voluntarily. He declared the children were taken away from Mrs. Stamatoulos because it was felt they would not be in the proper environment.

Mrs. Stamatoulos was located by Dr. Boyer, after Richmond police had asked San Francisco authorities' assistance in locating her, as the suspected "kidnaper" of the children. The probation officer declared the mother promised to return the children to Mrs. Sisson.

SMUGGLERS OF LIQUOR ACTIVE

EL PASO, Tex., Mar. 8—(U.P.)—Stern, steel-nerved men patrolled the banks of the Rio Grande tonight and peered out over the muddy waters toward Old Mexico.

The were members of the border patrol—the unit of men whose major duty it is to prevent the smuggling of contraband into the United States.

Four times this week they battled with smugglers and emerged victorious. One of their number was wounded; they killed one Mexican and captured liquor valued at more than $5000.

New Drive

Veteran custom agents tonight said that the current drive of rum runners to bring their cargoes into the United States from Juarez exceeds in intensity the pre-Christmas campaign.

They said plans were being considered to arm the patrol with sub-machine guns as a measure of retaliation against the ambushing tastics of the smugglers.

Twice in the last four days members of the patrol have been fired on from ambush. One attempt on the life of a patrolman was made during daylight.

Men Ambushed

While patrolmen were going over the scene of a battle with smugglers the night before, Manuel Martinez, 25, stepped from behind a house and opened fire. No one was hit and he escaped.

The next night Martinez again opened fire from ambush at the same spot. In the gun battle that followed, he fell mortally wounded.

In one of the most fiercely contested liquor battles since the advent of prohibition, R. E. Bowden, mounted customs agent and patrol

SLAYER MUST HANG FRIDAY

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Mar. 8—(U.P.)—Alphonse Reilly, 22, condemned murderer, was adjudged sane today by a committee comprising three physicians and Warden James J. Holohan.

Barring unexpected action from Gov. C. C. Young, the verdict destroyed the youth's last hope to obtain a retrieve from execution, scheduled for next Friday.

The commission reached its decision after they had questioned the youth for some time. The hearing was suggested by Governor Young after he had been approached by Fr. Russell Wilbur, the youth's parish priest of St. Louis, Mo., who asked the governor for a 60-day reprieve, promising that he would produce evidence in that time to show that Reilly was hereditarily insane.

This request the governor refused, but he reminded Warden Holohan that, under California law, the warden at the penal institution has the power to order insanity examination for doomed prisoners.

Drs. L. L. Stanley, Edward Garfinkle and Lloyd C. Austin, all prison physicians, with Warden Holohan, comprised the committee.

Reilly killed a shoe clerk, in the course of a holdup, in Los Angeles in January, 1929.

Fr. Wilbur told Gov. Young that Reilly's brother is now an insane asylum and that his mother's sanity has been questioned.

Brewery Office Robbed By Thieves

Thieves forced entrance into the old Golden West brewery at Sixteenth street last night, according to police reports.

A number of pens and pencils were stolen from the office of the dismantled plant.

Marriage May Be a Lottery—But Take a Chance

"CUPID Refuses to Recognize Existence of Any Hard Times," cheerily carols a headline.
And the story beneath backs up the optimistic assertion
To prove that there's practically no decrease in marrying hereabouts,
This seems to us encouraging testimony
In the face of all the doleful prognostications
About the decreasing popularity and success of the matrimonial institution.
And yet some young persons, we hear, are getting more and more shy
Of taking a chance in the lottery of marriage—
Just because of all the warnings issued on the subject by the would-be-wise.
"It seems that the youth of all generations," writes "One of Them,"
"Were always warned to consider and reconsider before marrying.
"Divorce has always been blamed on hurried marriages
"Or marriages in which neither party thoroughly weighed the reasons for marrying

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

"And their chances of making a success of it.
"But now it seems to me that the intelligent youth of this generation
"Are facing a problem which is even greater.
"By the intelligent youth, I mean
"The young men and women between the ages of nineteen and twenty-six,
"Who are taking courses at the colleges and universities,
"Attending lectures and reading the books
"Which tend to throw light on our present day difficulties.
"These young people are conversant with the opinions
"Of all the leading psychologists, psychiatrists, sociologists, economists, biologists and doctors.
"They are interested in the changes going on around them
"And in the findings of these men, to such a great extent,
"That they are applying them to their own lives.
"These young people do not have to be told to consider
"For they analyze and rationalize keenly.
"They look for reasons and think deeply
"Before giving an opinion or making a decision.
"And this is where I am afraid they are losing out.
"To-day so many love affairs
"That years ago would have culminated in marriages, happy or otherwise,
"Are being explained away by these young people who are sincerely attracted to one another.
"Love, after all, is a delicate thing.
"And although it has, in the course of nature, to bear quite a bit,
"One can hardly expect it to stand up against the keen analysis
"Given it by these youthful analysts.
"They question: 'Are we compatible, mentally and physically?
"'Is it really love,
"'Or are we not being fooled into an infatuation by the old biological urge?
"'Are we the proper mates to bring healthy children into the world?
"'Economically, have we a right to marry?
"'Sociologically, have we a right to raise a family.
"'Even if we are physically and mentally fit?
"'Do you understand what I mean?
"It really is so hard for the intelligent young to decide—
"To find the happy and well-balanced medium
"Between no thought about marriage—only emotion about it—
"And between emotion 'sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,' and thus paralyzed
"To the point where all action is denied.
"If you're going to love and marry—indeed, to live at all—
"Don't you have to go ahead and take your chance, without thinking too much?"

Indeed you do; and it seems to us that "One of Them"
Has diagnosed accurately the dilemma in which too many of the "intelligent young" find themselves.
No sensible person thinks the too-hasty match stands much chance of happiness—
The marriage made on a bet, on a dare,
Or on the rebound—the marriage that is based entirely on an impulse of the moment.
After all, marriage is not "all a wonder and a wild desire."
It is—it must be—hours, months, years of quiet loyalty and intelligent companionship.
Therefore, if marriage is to have a fair chance of success,
The pair contemplating it must do a certain amount of thinking—
Must decide whether they have tastes and ideas in common,
Whether, between them, they can make the sort of home which will suit them,
Whether they want to be, and are reasonably fit to be parents.
Nevertheless, love, marriage and life are by no means all cut-and-dried—
They cannot be "doped out" to the last detail beforehand—
All the intelligent thinking in the world cannot eliminate altogether the element of chance.
It is perfectly true that every couple takes a chance of great unhappiness when marrying—
With the best will and wit in the world, the two cannot be sure beforehand
That theirs is the real, right, lifelong attraction;
On the other hand, marriage based on deep feeling and a reasonable—rather than an UNREASONABLE amount of thinking—
Has in it the chance of a great and permanent happiness.
So far as our experience and observation may be trusted.
There is no other human relationship which can be so satisfying—
So inspiring, so dependable, such sheer good fun—
Such an insurance against the loneliness of each individual soul—
As the permanent union of a man and a woman who love each other,
And who grow in love and friendship and understanding
During the years of close association and partnership which marriage, at its best, involves.
Marriage may be a lottery—but it's a lottery in which a chance is worth taking—
No matter what all the "psychologists, psychiatrists, sociologists, economists, biologists and doctors" say—
Because the prize of happiness which can be won—
Which has been and is being won every day—
Is the most worth-while prize open to human endeavor.
Anyhow, that's the way we feel about it—
And we're sorry for any clever youngster who analyzes romance to death!

Zealous Mambuttis

A tribe of pygmies, known as the Mambuttis, living in depth of Africa's darkest wilderness, has been on the rampage, according to a newspaper published in the Congo. Nobody ever heard of the Mambuttis before, with the possible exception of Stanley or Livingstone. They may be that tribe of quiet, sweet natured dwarfs of whom Stanley tells in his book, "Zanzibar," that they would not believe him when he told them that outside their immense forest there were fields and rivers and sunshine. At any rate, the Mambuttis have been on the warpath. Leaving their wives and children behind, the warriors of the tribe, who had almost forgotten how to handle their weapons of war, have been carrying out raids in the territories of neighboring pygmy tribes. Fortune smiled upon them, apparently, for, the Congo paper says, they captured a large number of prisoners. They did not bring away any loot, for the simple reason that there wasn't anything to loot in the first place. Women, so often the object of a hostile raid between neighboring tribes, were not carried away either. The Mambuttis have all they can manage in this particular commodity. The prisoners, goes on the Congo paper, were treated with the utmost kindness, but only for a certain length of time. After two or three weeks they were brought out in the clearing, interrogated for a last time, and as their answers did not satisfy their captors, mercilessly slain. When the Mambuttis had killed off a batch of prisoners they returned to the charge and captured a new lot. Had these sweet little dwarfs suddenly been turned into blood-thirsty savages? Nothing of the kind. They became Christians some years ago and were very happy and contented. So happy, in fact, that they wanted to share their happiness with neighboring tribes. Hence the raids. Somehow the story sounds familiar.

Frenchman on Palestine

M. Albert Londres, who is one of the "maitres de reportage" in France, that is to say, a star reporter, has just published a volume of impressions collected on a voyage which took him from New York to Jerusalem, with the object of observing Jewish life in such diverse places as the Bronx, the Galician ghettos and the Palestinian colonies. He practically retraced the road gone over by Ludwig Lewisohn six years ago, which resulted in that work of beauty and vision called "Israel." Only M. Londres went further than the American writer, he penetrated into the depths of Russia. He had completed his tour in August last year when the troubles broke out in the Holy Land. He had just decided the following as a title for his travelogue: "The Wandering Jew Has Arrived," but the reports of the massacres made him fear that he might have to change the title. So he rushed back to Jerusalem. Once more he went through the land from Dan to Beersheba, questioning, observing, looking on and listening. As I traveled a good deal in the company of M. Londres last September and October, I knew that he was wary of any ready-made conclusions. He shunned officials and spokesmen and such people as much as he could, without neglecting their interpretations. He relied on the testimony of the workers and peasants, Jewish and Arab alike. And so, after six weeks' diligent inquiry, he did not feel that he needed to change the title of his interesting book, which remains, "The Wandering Jew Has Come Home!"

No Hero to Wife

Ludendorff's ignominious surrender to his nerves is all the more noticeable because his wife, whom he married as a widow with three sons in 1909, lets his conduct speak for itself in the book, "My Married Life With Ludendorff." Despite the great provocation she received from his failure to face fate and his philandering during the very time he was revolting, she permits herself only two criticisms. Ludendorff, she says, had no sense of humor and "never possessed any knowledge of human nature." Had he had either he would not have had any dealings with people like Kapp and Hitler, and still less with the egregious Trebitsch Lincoln. It was not merely that he saw red when the republic was formed. Before that he had fallen out with the Crown Prince and Prince Rupprecht. Then there was something very undignified in his flight to Copenhagen in a false beard and blue spectacles. But the spell of exile did anything but sober him, for he was even more foolish when he came back. Her whole method of painting Ludendorff's portrait shows that Frau Margarethe has kept her head, whereas events, quite unconnected with her, show that the General lost his. The superman, in fact, saw red. The book certainly disproves the theory that woman and hysteria are synonymous.

ANOTHER BIG INSTITUTION

THE International Bank has been established in Switzerland with an American as Chairman of the Board. And here's the way the bank will be running in a couple of months, if it adopts American banking ideas:

SUPPOSE YOU DIED TO-MORROW?

How would the wife and kiddies get along? Send for our booklet that tells how to have us appointed as your executor and trustee. Or drop in personally and ask for Mr. Krinch, the head of our trust department. He will explain to you our Easy Dying Plan.

Think of it! The International Bank is backed up by the Treasuries of America, England, Germany, France, Italy and Japan. If you want your little daughter Elsie to go to college on the trust fund you set aside you have the Japanese Navy, the French Standing Army and the United States Marines to carry your wishes out. If necessary, our trust department will call out the German Landsturm to help her pass her entrance exams. It is part of our service.

The International Bank has resources of $510,000,000, 4,278,000,000 francs, 792,088,521 marks, 22,000,000,000 yen and 415,000,000,000 lire, or the equivalent of £837,291,003,231. That is 31,677 tons in a condensed statement. Make out your will to-day and let Mr. Krinch advise you.

The International Bank is a favorite with lady depositors—special upholstered booths, with lace curtains and onyx fountain pens, for them to figure their overdrafts in. The customer is always right.

Don't fail to look over our special line of safe deposit vaults, either. Something to place your valuables in. Rentals $5 per year and up. For $15 you can rent an individual vault large enough to contain your stocks, bonds, jewels and an unabridged dictionary. For $110 per year you may rent a vault large enough for a mummy. Some of our higher priced vaults have a shower bath and kitchenette attached. Ask for Mr. Zillick, head of our safety vault department.

If you are thinking of traveling abroad let the International Bank arrange your tour. This is part of our service to customers. Ask for Mr. Cronk, head of our travel department, and he will secure your steamship tickets, reserve hotel rooms, with or without bath, obtain rail transportation, whistle in foreign languages for taxicabs, signal for porters, make arrangements with head waiters and paste fancy labels on your baggage. The International Bank does things right.

Remember, the International Bank has convenient branches everywhere. Choose the one that's in your neighborhood from this list:

LISBON PORT SAID MELBOURNE BANGKOK BUENOS AIRES HONOLULU NOME CAPE TOWN MUKDEN OSLO TUNIS NEWBURYPORT, MASS. BOMBAY VALPARAISO

Next month we will open our latest branch at Helsingfors, Finland. Drop in any time.

The International Bank also has a savings department. Ask for one of our dime banks and get the habit of thrift.

The biggest men in town are members of our Board of Directors. Look over the following names and their occupations:

George Windsor, King of England, Emperor of India, &c.
Gaston Doumergue, President of France.
Andy Mellon, Secretary of the United States Treasury.
Benito Mussolini, Dictator of Italy.
And many other outstanding men.

The International Bank also had 371 Vice Presidents, the largest cast ever assembled.

You can't go wrong at the International Bank. Open an account to-day.

The Dance—for Health and Beauty

By Harriet Hoctor

Premiere Danseuse of "Simple Simon"

MISS HOCTOR IN DANCE AND PORTRAIT POSES

Corrects Posture Faults, Lends Grace to Carriage and Uplifts the Spirits if Used as the Daily Dozen

DANCING is the most exhilarating way of performing the daily dozen. Not for the tired business woman alone is it beneficial, but it will work wonders for the woman in the home.

Exercise, merely for health's sake, takes on deadly monotony day after day. And the uninspirational sort is a lonely task. It is unfortunate but true that few of us will persist unless it can be made a positive pleasure.

But five minutes of solo dancing every day to the music of some good orchestra over the radio is inspiring. It braces tired muscles, relaxes the nerves, and is an excellent uplift for the spirits. Lift the spirits and you lift the facial muscles, too. Dancing, then, is a beautifier.

Tap dancing is the type I would recommend for the amateur's requisite exercise. It can be learned quickly and is great fun. From five to ten minutes of this will prove a magical freshener after a day of work or of shopping. This form of dancing is learned easily since there is no special technique to acquire, and it is marvelous exercise. Tap dance and you will find it more like playing a game than going through the usual arm and leg manoeuvres.

It is best to take a few lessons in tap dancing from some good teacher to accomplish the steps with facility and then they may be practiced in the home at will.

Greek dancing may be the next attempt should one care to be more proficient in the art and to acquire more finesse. Ballet dancing exacts years of training and is not only difficult but strenuous.

In ballet dancing the feet are turned out in an unnatural position, whereas in the Greek type of dance they are used in a perfectly straight position, an aid in walking properly with the balls of the feet first. Greek dancing further is wonderful training for the arms and the body as well as the legs, and counteracts what stiffness ensues from ballet dancing.

Solo dancing in any form, especially when one is untrained or out of practice, will cause stiffness for the first few times, and because of this many women forego the pleasure of further dancing.

Professional dancers never appear on the stage without an initial warming up to soften the muscles and make them pliable. The amateur likewise will find that she can ease her aches and pains by persisting in her workout. In ten minutes it will be easy and simple to use those weary muscles.

Tap dancing as the first and most simple form of the daily dozen is not strenuous. But should the abdominal muscles be weak it is wise to wear a soft dancing belt. Particularly is this necessary if a woman does much jumping. The belt is a protection against possible muscle strain.

There is sound basis for the belief that dancing is a splendid aid in correcting posture faults and lending grace to the carriage. It may be proved in any family where there are two daughters, one of whom dances and the other does not.

Many mothers write me regarding the possibilities of their young daughters becoming professional dancers. How can I tell? How can any one tell until a child reaches adolescence? Children change remarkably between the ages of eight and sixteen. One never knows just how they are going to develop. A graceful young child may grow into an awkward one in the teens.

Yet it is my belief that every normal child is the better for having had dancing lessons. A few lessons at a time are best, such as fancy steps to little stories and interpretative dancing that is simple and easy, to promote rhythm. Both types are fine to give a child grace, but in no case should the work be acrobatic. There is danger of distortion when strenuous work is attempted while the figure is unformed.

Too many lessons a week will tend to make the youngster lose interest, so that in the adolescent period he or she who might have turned to the stage will have found the work arduous rather than pleasant.

A child of eleven or twelve is sufficiently young to learn ballet dancing, for after that age there is plenty of time for proficiency in the art. Good groundwork will bring out what skill is latent, and after twelve there may then be thoughts of the stage.

Lessons in fancy dancing are of benefit to every normal child. The health gradually is improved, and if in later years dancing does not make an appeal or the stature is too tall for professional work, the parents have not spent a great amount of money in giving the child a chance.

So valuable do I consider dancing as an art and a career that had I a daughter, I think I would literally push her on the stage. I so love dancing that if I were not on the stage, I would feel impelled to dance just the same. There is pleasure in the work and training as well as the excitement.

There is a delicious sense of fatigue to dancing. After my own performances, I reach home in a physically tired state, while mentally I am alert and fresh. In other words, while dancing wearies the body, it tones up the mind and lifts the spirits. It is good for the nerves and fine for the disposition.

The Farmer's Advice

By Alfalfa Smith

IF ALL life is expression and our success or failure is based upon the way we express ourselves, is it not wise to see that our children learn this secret while they are young?

Does your boy express himself at home and in school?

Does he help about the house and does he run errands? Is he helpful at school?

There is no reason why he cannot help the teacher by learning his lessons.

It would be good exercise for you to go over the various activities around you and see just how your boy can fit in.

Start with home, then school, your neighborhood, church, Sunday School, and so on.

Please do not bear down too hard on SERVICE, but rather put the emphasis on EXPRESSION. By helping you the child should help himself.

Oh, Go to Bed

By Eliot Kays Stone

"DAD, what's a soprano?"
"A female or boy singer in the upper register."
"What's the upper register?"
"The higher notes of the scale."
"The scale? Do they weigh music?"
"Certainly they don't weigh music."
"What do they have a scale for?"
"To measure it. You see, the notes ascend in regular order and they call these notes the scale."
"Are you a soprano?"
"No, I've just told you a soprano is a boy or female singer."
"Is ma a soprano?"
"No, she's a contralto."
"Is sister a soprano?"
"No, she's a mezzo-soprano."
"Gee, dad, isn't any one a soprano?"
"Oh, yes, there are lots of famous sopranos, like Rosa Ponselle, Mary Garden and Amelita Galli-Curci."
"Why did Galli curse her?"
"Oh, go to bed."

Do You Dust Right?

YES, there is a right way to do the dusting, so why not do it that way?

First of all, do not attempt the dusting until the dust in the room is all settled after sweeping. Of course you use a clean duster. This should not be swished about but held in a mass so the dust is gathered in the cloth, not brushed on the floor, and the surface dusted well wiped.

Always begin dusting at the top of the room and work down, dust the higher objects first. The duster should be shaken out-of-doors occasionally during the dusting process if it is a dry duster.

The duster should be soft and shed neither lint nor ravelings. For highly polished surfaces use a chamois or silk duster. Most housewives know that a feather duster merely scatters the dust, so these are not in use in progressive modern homes.

It Is Said

Sprinkling salt generously over the coal will prevent clinkers and, of course, it will burn more evenly.

If you wash the woodwork with lime water and let it dry thoroughly before you apply paint it will dry in half the usual time.

RITES PLANNED FOR 3 FLIERS

LOS ANGELES, March 8.—UP—Plans were made today for the funeral services of three ill-fated fliers of the Western Air Express killed when their three-motored plane crashed two weeks ago in a wild section of the San Bernardino mountains.

James E. Doles, pilot of the plane which was returning from Kingman, Ariz., to Los Angeles, will be buried with Masonic rites early next week.

Catholic funeral services were planned Monday or Tuesday for Albert Beiber, young co-pilot, and John Slaton, the steward, will be buried with simple services at the grave either on Monday or Tuesday.

The bodies of the men were returned to Los Angeles by aitplane after an inquest at the desert town of Victorsville. The coroner's jury decided the men came to their deaths accidently when their airplane crashed from an unknown cause.

Relatives have requested that the funeral services be simple in character and it is probable that associates in the flying world will attend with members of the fliers' families.

Subject of the lesson, "The Parable of the Sower," a most interesting lesson. Golden text, "Who hath ears to hear, let him hear."

At eleven o'clock the first preaching service of the lenten season will be conducted by Rev. E. O. Hoffmeister, the subject of his sermon being "Christs Victory." The choir will sing "Take Wings To Thy Soul."

Holy Communion will also be observed at this service and the pastor is especially desirous to meet all our members and friends at this time, and has requested that we pass the word around so that we may thus open this solemn and sacred season in a truly devout spirit. Let us not disappoint him in this.

Open the doors of the Temple,
That our people may enter in;
Into the Master's presence,
Out of the fields of sin.
Come with a heart o'erflowing,
For a Savior who suffered and bled,
Only believing, knowing,
'Twas for you that His blood was shed.
Open the doors of the Temple,
Let our loudest hozannas ring,
Joining with hearts and voices,
In praise of our Heavenly King.

THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Barrett at Thirteenth street, Richmond, California.

Kenneth B. Wallace, minister.

Rev. Weldon M. Wilson, former pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, will be the speaker Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. FIRST TALKIE OF ZANE GREY STORY

No all talking picture yet made, it is said, surpasses the vivid action of "The Lone Star Ranger" Fox Movietone all talking romance of the southwest, adapted from Zane Grey's story that has been read by millions of people. This picture will be seen and heard at the Fox-California theater today and tomorrow.

George O'Brien, one of the most popular leading men in all talking pictures, portrays the leading role, while Sue aCrol, beautiful, charming and vivacious screen actress, enacts the leading feminine character and the two provide the love interest.

O'Brien was selected to play the role of Buck Duane beacuse the part seems to fit him. He is tall, handsome and athletic in addition to qualifying as a talented actor. Then, too, the character required a man lightning fast with a gun and O'Brien, long a student of his father, until recently chief-of-police of San Francisco, mastered the art of "throwing a gun" before he thought of a career in motion pictures. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that O'Brien's father has, for many years, held the record for drawing from the hip and emptying a six shot gun in four seconds.

Many of the most picturesque scenes were photographed in Arizona and stand out as singularly beautiful. A. F. Erickson directed

Also on the program is a Fox Movietone News and talking comedy.

WALTER McGRAIL and Sue Carol in a scene from "The Lone Star Ranger," which will be on the screen of the Fox-California theater today and tomorrow.

'Condemned' New Vehicle For Colman

The most unusual setting in picture history, the acting of such screen and stage stars as Ronald Colman, Ann Harding and Louis Wolheim, and the power of a story from the hands of two famous authors, are among the noteworthy features of "Condemned" the new Samuel Goldwyn starring vehicle for Ronald Colman, which comes to the Fox-California theater on Tuesday. Following close on the enormous success of "Bulldog Drummond" "Condemned" is said to be an even greater triumph for Colman.

Its story is adapted from "Condemned to Devil's Island," Blair Niles' famous novel of life in the French penal colonies in South Amercia. Sidney Howard, famed New York dramatist, winner of the Pulitzer prize for "They Knew What They Wanted," put "Condemned" into screen form and wrote the dialogue. It is directed by Wesley Ruggles.

In addition to Ronald Colman, in the starring role of the dashing French convict, the cast includes Ann Harding, Broadway stage star who made a national sensation in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and has been a tremendous success in "Paris Bound," her first picture; Louis Wolheim, most noted character actor on the screen, and Dudley Digges, star of the New York Theater Guild.

Another famous name associated with this production is that of William Cameron Menzies, noted artist, who designed the sets.

"Condemned" is a story of romance growing between the mistreated wife of the warden of the prison on Devil's Island and a convict whose sympathy for her plight ripens into love.

Unique scenes of the interiors of prison-ships and squalid jails, thrilling escapes through the tropical jungles, and all the atmosphere of a group of desperate criminals huddled together on what is known as "The Island of Living Death" combine to make "Condemned" one of the production sensations of the year.

tor, said that symptoms indicated the patients were suffering from a form of spinal meningitis known professionally as "epidemical polio-mye'itis."

Assistant State Health Director J. P. Folan said that tests taken on about 100 patients was negative to this and other forms of meningitis. He attributed the cause to jamaica ginger poisoning. iCty Health Director W. H. Niles agreed with Folan an said that all tests were negative to the meningitis test.

No moves have been made to isolate the patients.

Probe Demanded

While the malady caused despair to its victims, most of whom stayed in the rooms in dingy oil fie'd section hotels and rooming houses, citizens demanded investigation of the poison supply. Federal authorities stood ready to seize the large supply of jamaica ginger carried in drug store stocks if chemists' reports warranted such action. A federal ban was placed on all shipments from Kansas City and St. Louis warehouses.

The United States district attorney's office renewed efforts to suppress sales. District Attorney Roy St. Lewis said he would call a grand jury to bring indictments in 20 cases of "jake" sales.

Federal authorities in Kansas City were called upon to assist in determining the supply. Chemists said they were at a loss to analyze samples here without knowing the formula kept by manufacturers.

Warning Heeded

Oklahoma City was a dry city tonight. Revelers heeded the warning of officials to abstain from drinking intoxicants.

The victims who yesterday found their legs useless when they ventured from their homes remained quietly in bed. Many expected to die. Others joked with their neighbors about their plight. The greeting of "how's your feet?" was common.

Early today, several of the victims were seen taking a short walk. They hobbled along supported by canes but returned shortly to their beds.

Five Killed In Mine Explosion

HELPER, Utah, Mar. 8—(U.P.)—Utah's toll of coal mine explosion victims was increased to 28 in little more than a month when five men were killed by a gas explosion in the new Peerless mine at Lynn, near here, late today. Eight others who were in the mine when the blast rocked its tunnels and slopes were rescued by helmet crews.

The miners were caught by the explosion just as the night 13 men was going to work. Five were caught by the direct force of the blast and their bodies were badly burned. Some of the others incurred slight injuries, or were overcome by gas but were carried out alive.

Trout Stops Water Supply

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—UP—Invasion of one's room by a trout is a serious infringement of personal liberty, according to G. Hooper, manager of the Sutter hotel.

Water stopped running in the hotel today and a main was disconnected. A 14 inch trout, which had found its way through the city water mains from Spring valley, flopped out.

"But there is no percentage in it" complained George.

"The fishing season isn't open so I can't keep the trout. All I have is a good story and so far no one has believed it.',

Princess Gives Birth To Child

TURIN, Italy, March 8.—UP—A daughter was born to Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of the king and queen of Italy, shortly after noon today. Both mother and child were reported doing well. Queen Elena was present when the child was born.

Princess Yolanda was married April 9, 1925, to Count Calvi Di Cavalry. The princess is 29 years old.

Farmer Slays Woman, Child

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 8—(U.P.)—Because a woman "hounded" him, Donald Engledow, 23-year old farmer of Belleview, Mo., killed her and her seven year old daughter at Belleview and then placed their bodies in an automobile to "bring them home," he told police who arrested him here tonight.

Engledow confessed to police he had killed the mother and her child, "because it was the only way to get away from that woman."

"I don't know why I killed the little girl, though," he said.

Sheepman To Be Hanged Tomorrow

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 8.—UP—A final effort to save George Brownfield, Wyoming sheepman, from the gallows failed today.

Gov. Frank C. Emerson refused to commute his sentence to life imprisonment and the warden of the state prison at Rawlins was instructed to proceed with preparations for the hanging.

Brownfield will be led to the gallows between midnight Sunday and dawn Monday for the killing of Theodore Thomas ,a sheep herder, last July.

After murdering Thomas, Brownfield attempted to assault his victims wife, according to testimony at the trial.

DRIVURSELF CO. BUYS BUICKS

One of the greatest single passenger car sales ever recorded in Pacific coast autodom culminated with delivery to San Francisco headquarters of the Hertz Drivurself Stations of an entire trainload of new 1930 Buicks consigned from the factories at Flint, Mich., according to C. C. Kratzer, 202 Tenth street, local Buick dealer.

And following not more than two weeks on the San Francisco trainload will come another full train of new Buicks, ordered also through the Howard distributing concern and consigned to Hertz Drivurself stations in the Pacific northwest.

"And these huge shipments of 1930 Buicks for use in our Pacific coast stations are only a part of many other trainloads of Buicks consigned to our hundreds of other Drivurself headquarters thruout the United States and Canada" declared Neal Begley, president and general manager of the western division of the Hertz organization. "This year's huge transaction between ourselves and the Buick organization has been the greatest of its kind in our history."

One of the chief compelling factors in this year's gigantic purchase of Buicks, Begley explained was the rigid Hertz policy of utilizing nothing but strictly current models in its automotive rent service. Next in point came the fact that Buicks during their past years of intensive use in Hertz service, have proven far and away the most satisfactory of all cars in their class.

"Needless to say, we are heartlessly exacting in our automotive demands," Begley explained. "Developing as we have, the largest self-drive automobile business in the country and the only national self-drive concern, we have taken fullest advantage of our opportunity of checking, one against the other, all representative makes showing potential adaptability to our use. Buick has consistently led its class by a wide margin in reliability, low upkeep, economical mileage and trade-in value. As a result, we have practically standardized on Buick among cars of its price class. In face we are operating a greater number of Buicks than any other car—their number in our service running away into the thousands.

Strange Tourist Should Not Be Pampered

Special consideration, in the matter of obeoience—or rather disobedience—to traffic regulations should not be demanded by the motorist when he ventures beyond the confines of his own city, suggests the National Automobile club. Because his car bears the license plate of another state, he should not expect to be petted and pampered, so far as rules go, and feel that being a visitor entitles him to do things which the local motorist would not do.

It is easy for the stranger to find out the regulations of the particular city and to follow the ways of the "home" drivers. It is a fact that there has been considerable abuse of the privileges which communities have accorded out-of-all concerned such abuse should not be countenanced. "No parking" should mean no parking to everyone, not just to the local motorist and to the exclusion of the greedy visitor.

Oil Gauges Never Perfect

Oil gauges are not perfect mechanisms, but the car owner who thinks the "gauge has gone crazy" when it starts registering something unusual may find himself in for a large repair bill, warns L. G. Evans, general service manager for the National Automobile club. The only attitude to take when the gauge shows something abnormal is that the "something" has to do with the oil pump or the oil supply.

Clutch Pedal Needs Inch Play

The clutch pedal on your car should have at least an inch of play below the floor board, according to the California State Automobile association. Otherwise the clutch plates may slip and wear rapidly. Most cars are equipped with an adjustment screw for this purpose.

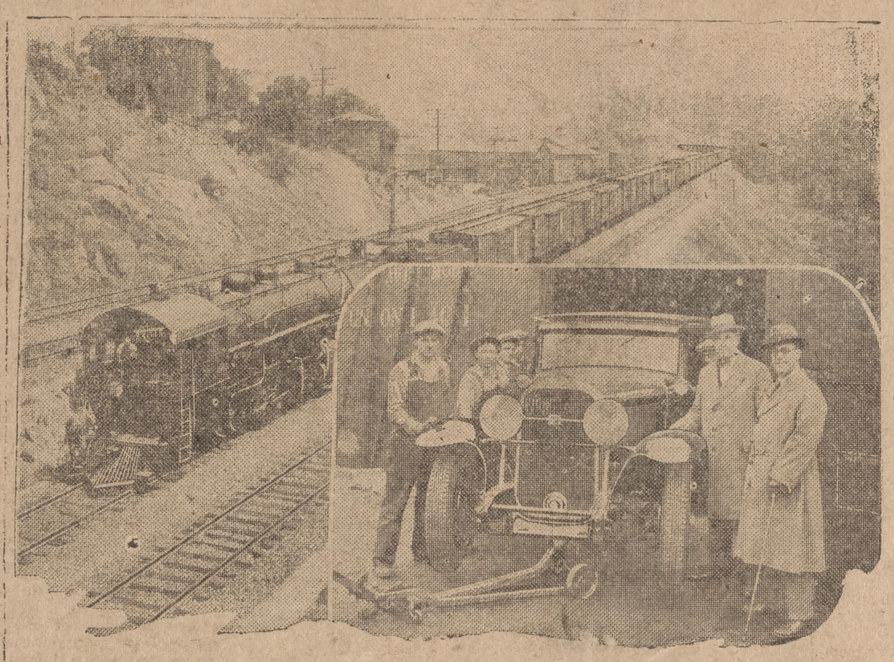
Taking Greely's Tip



SO SATISFACTORY have Buicks proven in national service of the Hertz Drivurself Stations, that recently two entire trainloads of 1930 Buicks were sent from the Buick factory in Michigan to Oakland, San Francisco and Pacific northwest stations. Neal Begley (right) president and general manager and J. R. Bradford, San Francisco Buick dealer, inspect the cars unloaded at San Francisco.

Wheel Shimmy In Cold Weather

Cold weather may result in shimmying of the front wheels, remarks L. G. Evans, general service manager for the National Automobile club. The cold results in the stiffening of the lubricants, which in turn result in a stiffening of the controls and springs.

Micrometer Takes Place Of Thin Dime

The old ways of measuring the spark plug point clearances are obsolete, remarks L. G. Evans, general service manager for the National Automobile club. It takes a micrometer today where a "thin dime" once was adequate. The explanation lies in the fact that if one plug adjustment is different from the others it is the same as having an entirely plug in the engine. It makes a lot of difference in the evenness with which the engine runs.

CAVERN GIVES UP NATURE'S SECRETS

CARLSBAD, N. M., March 8.—UP—Carlsbad Cavern, one of the greatest of nature's wonders, rapidly is giving up its secrets.

Tonight a group of New York newspapermen rested after a week of exploring the labyrinth of underground passages that are said to contain scenes of unbelievable beauty.

Heading the explorers is Frank Ernest Nicholson, noted writer and adventurer, who has now the distinction of reaching the lowest level ever attained by any human in a natural cavern.

This week Nicholson slid down a rope to a level of 1350 feet underground. He started his descent by way of a hole near the "dome room" and made two other descents before the final one.

"It would take a year to survey and completely explore all of the underground area," Nicholson said. "The formations were more beautiful than any so far seen in any part of the cavern.

"The formations are grotesque, eerie ,weird; like apparitions seen in a school boy's dream, but yet fantastically real. There were coral-like reefs with a pink fringe and a blue center that claimed considerable of my attention due to their novelty."

Although the main section of the cavern has been visited by large numbers of persons since the underground wonderland was discovered only last year the huge rooms were inspected by 85,000 tourists, there still remain numerous tunnels and crevices that have never echoed to the stamp of human footsteps.

A well equipped body of national park rangers escort groups of visitors daily throughout the wonders of the subterranean passageways but few persons ever have attempted to explore the "outside area."

Work was started the latter part of the week on a three reel motion picture. Pictures are to be made of the main rooms of the cavern and also of the newly discovered passages.

Leader Of Fight For Independence Of P. I. In S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 8—(U.P.)—Dr. Hilario C. Moncado, president of the Filipino Federation of America, was back from Washington today after a campaign for Philippine independence.

Expressing the appreciation of 10,000 Filipinos on the Pacific coast of his accomplishments in promoting amity, Dr. Moncado presented President Hoover with a gold "good will" medal.

Appearing before the Senate territorial and insular committee, Dr. Moncado established a Washington bureau of the Filipine Federation of America, with Clyde H. Tavenner in charge.

The five bills and resolutions on Philippine independence now pending have been analyzed by the federation leader and reports of the hearing of the Senate committee. He will go to Sacramento Saturday, where a banquet will be given in his honor.

"Filipinos maintain it is the duty of every citizen to assert himself concerning the problems of his country," Dr. Moncado said. "Thus we speak neither as a politician nor as one controlled by the financial interests of the Philipines.

"We seek to prove why we believe the Phillipine Islands are as able to rule themselves economically as well as poitically.

"We consider it presumptuous on the part of American politicians to say that because the Philipines have not established themselves economically, independence should still be denied.

"The present uncertain status of the Philippines, which has been sapping what otherwise would have been a robust, healthy constitution, must give way to a definite and permanent solution of our status. And the only hope for this solution is the granting of immediate and complete independence."

Battle Seen As Mine Unions Hold Rival Conclaves

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 8.—UP—Under the leadership of the executive board of the Illinois district organization, the largest unit in the international body, a "rank and file" convention of miners will assemble here Monday to attempt reorganization of the United Mine Workers of America.

Simultaneously, President John L. Lewis, and his loyal supporters will open their own international convention at Indianapolis.

The two conventions forecast a bitter struggle for control of the international organization, in the opinion of veteran labor leaders.

The Illinois protest is based upon the claim the Miners' International constitution expired last March, because of Lewis' denies, contending a referendum by which the membership voted to postpone the 1929 convention automatically continued the old constitution.

"The condition of the United Mine Workers of America has at last sunk to a level where only heroic measures can save the organization.

Engineered by an amalgamation of mine union officers who have opposed Lewis' policies for ten years, the convention here is supported also by President John H. Walker of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

Lewis has appealed to President William Greene of the American Federation to revoke the Illinois state charter.

Other signers of the Springfield call were Alexander Howat, president of the Kansas miners, and John Brophy, former president of one of the large bituminous districts in Pennsylvania. For the first time in history all of the opposition leaders have consolidated their forces against Lewis.

Rainy Weather Causes Skidding

Rainy weather brings skidding dangers, warns the Free Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile association, which suggests the following fundamentals:

Remember to get out of a skid quickly. Steer in the same direction the rear end is sliding, and don't hold the brakes on continuously; apply intermittently, which allows the wheels to revolve and assists in slowing speed.

NASH PRODUCES NEW MODEL EIGHT

KENOSHA, Wis., Mar. 8—Smart, youthful, and replete with comforts and conveniences unparalled in the increasingly popular open car field, the first Nash Twin-Ignition eight seven-passenger phaeton rolled from the production lines here today to win its destined leadership among the spring and summer motorists who desire the utmost in open car pleasure.

Trim and fleet as a greyhound, and equipped with the super-power and stamina of the famous Nash twin-ignition straight eight motor, the new car is built on a wheelbase of 133 inches to afford the greatest roominess and luxury.

Not a detail has been neglected to make the handsome new model a surpassing example of the new mode, the new comfort and the new security established by Nash engineering and design in the famous "400" cars for 1930.

Long Lines

The long, straight, high hood line, the high belt line accented by its heavy moulding and delicate color striping; the smart, low-swung khaki top and close-to-the ground profile of the eight phaeton all combine to suggest the fleetness and performance aptitude which are so readily apparent the moment an experienced driver takes its wheel. The new body is finished in Bonaventure green with a moulding in Dundee grey, set off by a delicate yellow stripe. Yellow wire wheels are preferable although natural wood wheels or disc wheels done in green with a yellow stripe may be had at the option of the owner. Royal equipment on the new car consists of two extra wheels set in fender wells and a sturdy baggage carrier.

The finest of top-grain leather upholsters both the wide front seat, the deeply cushioned rear seat with its adjustable center arm rest and form fitting side arm rests, and the two extra wide auxiliary seats which fold back sungly under the rear cowl when not in use. A chromium nickel robe rail, carpet covered foot rest, and an optional folding rear cowl and windshield complete the car's rear compartment and bring Pullman luxury to rear seat passengers. Chromium nickel crossbars and natural wood bows dress the smart tan top. Interior-ware, done in modern motif, completes the pleasing and serviceable interior equipment.

New Top

One detail of unusual interest to experienced travelers is the top rest iron, newly designed by Nash engineers, which forms a handy and compact mooring for the top when it is lowered and booted. This top anchor folds up into the top on the inside of the car when not in use, and adds measurably to the ease in handling and to the neatness of the top when it is lowered.

Like all other models of the great Nash twin-ignition eight "400" series, the new phaeton embraces all of the exclusive engineering and performance features which have given motoring its highest flavor and interest. In it the Nash straight-eight motor with twin-ignition, sixteen aircraft type spark plugs, high compression, valves-in-head, and integrally counterweighted, 9-bearing crankshaft, operates at its highest efficiency. Its advanced features also include: aluminum alloy, steel capped connecting rods; aluminum alloy, Invar-strut pistons; advanced carburetion and cooling systems; automatic, thermo-statically controlled radiator shutters; steel covered, lifetime lubricated springs individually tailored to the weight of the car; centralized chassis lubrication, and internal expanding, self energizing 4-wheel brakes.

Roy K. Dorr, Eleventh street and Bissell avenue, is the Richmond dealer for the Nash car.

Increase For Aid Expected

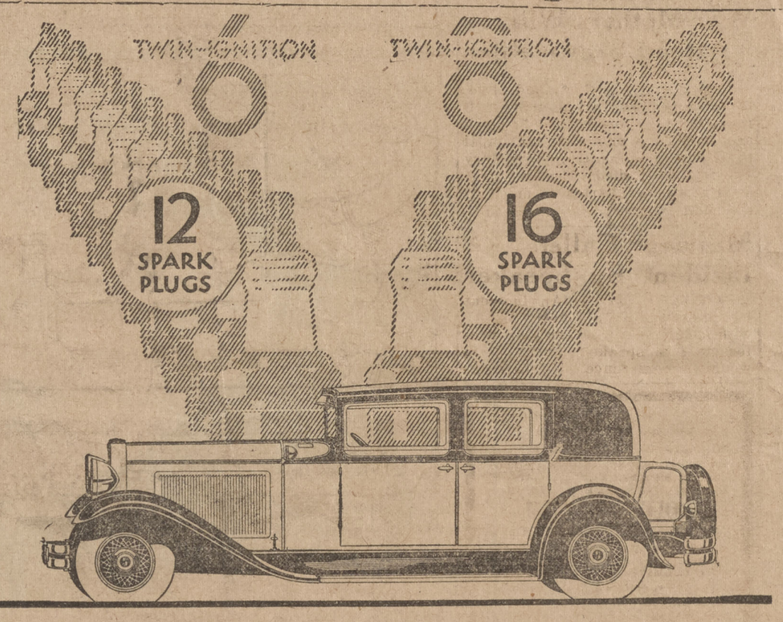
Federal aid for the improvement of post roads will undoubtedly be increased by the present congress from $75,000,000 per year to $125,000,000 per year, according to the California State Automobile association. The house committee on roads has already formally approved this increase, which has long been advocated by the Automobile association. It will increase California's allotment from $2,500,000 per year to $4,150,000.

Through its highways bureau the association is likewise advocating an increase in appropriations for construction of highways within national forest areas from $7,500,000 to $12,500,000 annually. This measure is now before the house committee on roads and it is expected to be reported out favorably early this month. Passage of this measure will mean an additional three quarters of a million dollars annually for California.

U. S. Leads In Car Registration

The following figures have been received by the National Automobile club from the state highway department: The United States leads all other countries in motor vehicle registration, with 24,493,124 units. The entire foreign registration is only 7,285,000. The United States has 3,005,614 miles of roads—its nearest rival being France with 440,085 miles. Argentina is the leading customer for American built cars; Mexico has the most machines per miles of road with 37; Russia, with six, has the fewest cars per miles of road. The United States has the fewest persons per car, with 4:9. China has 17,000 passengers for every automobile.

Don't dip rags or waste in the gasoline tank of your car, advises the California State Automobile association. The lint from rags will accumulate in the screens or jets and interfere with the proper performance of a motor.



TWIN-IGNITION MEANS—
Greater Power, Greater Smoothness, Extraordinary Economy

BECAUSE two different motor cars are alike in price, it does not follow that they are also alike in quality, value or performance. ¶ There is always a best, and if you are looking for it, drive a Nash Twin-Ignition Eight or Six. They are the only cars in their price field which offer the superiority of Twin-Ignition performance. ¶ Twin-Ignition (two spark plugs, two simultaneous sparks, per cylinder, instead of one) produces smoother, more thorough combustion and consequently a smoother, more vigorous flow of power. You can feel the difference. You will know immediately what you have been missing, driving a car with single ignition. ¶ Other "400" features of superior performance and value are Bijur centralized chassis lubrication; lifetime-lubricated springs, encased in steel spring covers; built-in, automatic radiator shutters; and Duplate non-shatterable plate glass in all windows, doors and windshields (no extra cost in the Twin-Ignition Eight—optional at slight extra cost in the Twin-Ignition Six and Single Six).

MOTORS NINE PLAYS S.F. TEAM

The Thomas Motors will compete in a practice contest against the Dammo club of San Francisco today at 2 o'clock on the First street lot. At the same time, the San Leandro and Oakland Eagle nine will clash at San Leandro to decide who will meet the Motors next Sunday in the finals of the Oakland Winter baseball league.

The ranks of the Motors have been sadly depleted during the last week by the immigration of several of the most outstanding members of the Thomas nine to the Coast League spring training camps.

However, Les Thomas has succeeded in filling up the gap in his aggregation rather efficiently. Vierra, P. S. E. A. twirler, will occupy the box for the locals in today's contest. Two athletes, Tierney and Silva, have been drawn from the San Pablo club to strengthen the Thomas Motor lineup. Borreani regular Thomas catcher, will do the receiving for the locals today. Borreani is expected to see action with the Seattle club this season.

The Dammo boys are well known in baseball circles in San Francisco and should provide plenty of opposition for the Richmond squad on the First street diamond.

The Motors are scheduled to angle with the winners of today's San Leandro-Eagles contest next Sunday at Richmond in the finals of the Oakland Winter league.

Cagers Ready For N. A. A. U. Eliminations

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8.—UP—Forty-five basketball teams, comprising an entry list one team short of last year's record of 46 teams, started play here tonight in the drive to conquer the National Amateur Athletic Union championship.

The tournament, brought here first in 1920, has attracted leading fives from all parts of the country and the enrollment of players include many former college stars.

The championship Big Six conference team from the University of Missouri, was entered to play under the colors of the Kansas City Athletic club. Two other Kansas City clubs and one from Kansas City, Kansas, made up the remainder of local entries.

Pacific Coast Teams

Three teams are entered from the Pacific coast—the Los Angeles Athletic club, the Olympic club of San Francisco, and the Athens A. C. of Oakland.

From the east the Laurel Athletic club of Bridgeport, Conn., and the Lenox Knights of Columbus from Lenox, Mass., were entered.

New Orleans and Memphis were entered from the south and a score of midwestern entries, made up the total of clubs entered.

Tonight's games were mostly sectional contests, the only outside clubs playing being Murphy-Did-It of Omaha and Fisher Bodies of Flint, Mich.

Tomorrow's Games

Monday night games include:

Henry Clothiers, Wichita, Kans., vs. Los Angeles club, St. Louis, Mo.

Pairings by brackets for the tourney included:

Upper bracket: Athens club, California vs. bye; Los Angeles A. C., Los Angeles vs. bye; Lennox club, vs. Atwood, California; Denver vs. bye.

Lower bracket: Los Angeles club, St. Louis, vs. Henry's Wichita.

BAMBINO SIGNS NEW CONTRACT WITH YANKS

ST. PETERSBURG, March 8.—UP—"Babe" Ruth dropped out of the holdout class today and signed a contract whereby he will continue to play with the New York Yankees at an annual salary of $80,000 for the next two years.

Ruth, who long has been the highest paid man in baseball, thus sets a new mark for compensation. The new contract amounts to a $10,000 a year raise.

The contract was signed by Ruth and Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, who at various times throughout the winter have been wrangling over the wage question. Col. Ruppert arrived here yesterday and made the compromise proposal finally agreed to, but Ruth at first refused to accept it. He asked for $85,000.

The big slugger then threatened to retire from the diamond if Ruppert did not meet his terms. Something, however, apparently happened to bring about a change of mind and the signing took place this afternoon.

BATTLE LOOMS FOR ESTATE OF PRODUCER

NEW YORK, Mar. 8—(U.P.)—A legal battle over the estate of Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, theatrical producer, seemed certain today, with the announcement by Max D. Steuer, attorney, that Charlotte Fiscal claimed to be the common law wife of the dead theater magnate.

Erlanger's estate is variously estimated at from several thousand dollars to $75,000,000.

And while Steuer and his client are firm in his claims of a common law marriage, Erlanger's business associates and relatives are just as firm in their denials that he ever married after divorcing his first wife in December, 1911.

"Mr. Erlanger and I had been happy together for 18 years," sobbed the pretty, dark eyed, black haired woman, at her Riverside Drive apartment where Erlanger died.

"His Wife"

Asked whether she and Erlanger had been married by formal ceremony, she said:

"I was his wife. Please don't ask me anymore."

But Erlanger's brother, former supreme court justice Mitchell Erlanger said:

"This is no Mrs. Erlanger."

And that statement was repeated by Francis E. Reid, for years publicity man of the Erlanger enterprises.

But Steuer countered:

"Mrs. Erlanger, in whose arms Erlanger died Friday at their home on Riverside Drive, is his widow. Every department store in New York had charge accounts in the name of Mrs. Erlanger and the records of the Ambassador Hotel here and the Shelbourne Hotel at Atlantic City will show Mr. and Mrs. Erlanger lived there. Mr. Erlanger was well known to the management of both places.

"Confidential employes of Erlanger have arranged transportation and reservations many times for Mr. and Mrs. Erlanger. We will not have the slightest difficulty in proving there is a Mrs. Erlanger."

Not Well Known

And surprisingly little was known along Broadway about the woman Steuer claims is Erlanger's common law wife.

It was known she stopped her automobile almost every afternoon at Erlanger's offices to take him home. And it was rumored there was a wnderful romance in the life of the man who staged so many successful Broadway productions. But the street that usually is "in on the know" where its children are concerned, seemed today to be woefully ignorant of the inside story of the producer's alleged love affair.

Steuer admitted he himself knew but little about his client's history. He said, however, she did not figure in Erlanger's divorce, but said the couple had met 26 years ago.

At the Riverside address of Steuer's client today it was announced she had suffered a nervous collapse.

Husky Cagers Beat Trojans In 2nd Game

LOS ANGELES, March 8.—UP—The University of Washington basketball team turned back a heavy second half attack of the University of Southern California five, here tonight and won 36 to 31.

The victory placed the teams in a deadlock for the Pacific Coast conference championship as the Trojans won last night 46 to 31. The deciding game will be played Monday night.

The game kept a packed house in the huge auditorium in a frenzy with almost every possible basketball thrill tossed in as the two sterling quintets battled for honors.

Washington started its winning play at a time early in the game, when U. S. C. was seven to five ahead.

Exactly 16 points were annexed by the Huskies while U. S. C. remained scoreless for the remainder of the period and it was 21 to 7 at half time.

At the start of the second period the northerners worked thru to the basket in good style but on the whole it was their daring open work in the first half which gained them the verdict.

Corey Garage Nine To Play Acorns Today

The Corey Garage nine will tangle with the Oakland Acorns, a colored team of Oakland, today on the El Cerrito lot at 2 o'clock.

Babich and Rosano, the Corey battery during the past season, will be missing from the Corey lineup in today's contest. These two athletes are now playing for Richmond Union high school, and according to the Alameda County Athletic league ruling, must not be members of any other team outside of their high school.

Passoni will take Babich's place in the box for the Coreys today. Passoni has yet to stand the test of pitching against a strong nine. He ought to do well, as he has a fast curve that should do plenty of damage to the Acorn sluggers today. San Miguel will take Rosano's place behind the platter for the Coreys. Scarcella will also be absent from the Corey team today.

The Corey infield will consist of Moitoza at first, Prolo at second, Mulle at third and Matteri at shortstop.

Soccer Team Plays Oakland Eleven Today

Richmond's soccer athletes will clash with the Oakland Turnvereins today in the opening contest of the Eastbay Junior Soccer league cup ties. The game will be staged at 2 o'clock at Nicholl park.

The local eleven has a fair chance of success in the cup ties that start today, for Richmond finished in a second place tie in the league standing when the regular league schedules came to an end. The Phoenix club, which finished in first place, will probably be its greatest rival for the silver cup.

Richmond made a grand flourish last Sunday in the final game of the league schedule by swamping the Hayward outfit 7 to 1. The strong Scandia squad succumbed 2 to 0 the same day to the Turnvereins, who had been having a rather unsuccessful season in the junior league. Richmond ought to have little trouble in today's contest with the Turnvereins, but, as is the case in almost all types of sports, one never can be too sure of the final result.

The present standings of the Eastbay Junior Soccer league teams are as follows:

	W.	L.	D.	Pts.
Phoenix	8	2	1	17
Richmond	7	4	1	15
Iberico	7	3	0	14
Hakeah	6	4	2	14
Scandia	4	5	2	10
Turnverein	2	7	1	5
Hayward	0	9	1	1

MILLIONS TO PRAY FOR CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Mar. 8—(U.P.)—Two million church members in 900 congregations will offer up prayers tomorrow for a crimeless Chicago.

"Pray, register, and vote," was the three-fold call that went out tonight to the members of the Chicago Church Federation, a Protestant organization headed by Dean Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago School of Religion. All other denominations were included in the call.

Dean Mathews, in sounding a last minute call tonight for "city-wide prayer," said "We are on the verge of bankruptcy as regards our reputation."

"Unless men and women devoted to civic decency exert themselves, this bankruptcy will become nearer and nearer," he said.

The federation chose as its prayer text the verse from II Chronicles, 7:14:

"If my people which are called by My name, shall humble themselves and pray, and seek My face and turn from their wicked eye, then will I hear from Heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

Prayers will be divided into supplications for four results:

That every patriotic person may register and vote; that candidates may dedicate themselves to unselfish devotion to better community life; that those in office may give more heed to the demands of honor; and that Chicago's reputation may not be determined by its underworld characters, less than one per cent of its population.

RICHMOND NET PLAYERS LOSE TO U.C.

The University of California Frosh tennis team was victorious over the Richmond Union high school tennis athletes yesterday in a practice tourney on the University of California courts.

The local boys made a determined stand yesterday, but were not quite experienced enough to cope with the veteran university athletes.

Galloway defeated Jimmy Hurley of Richmond 5-7, 6-4, and 6-2. Yesterday's contest was the second match in which Hurley had met Galloway of Berkeley. Hurley was victorious in the first match.

Carlin of Richmond lost to Nedin 6-0, 6-3. Chickering of Berkeley handed a 6-1, 9-7 defeat to Darrow Sutton, local athlete. Avila of Richmond lost to Sea by scores 7-5, 6-1.

In the doubles, Hurley and Carlin of Richmond conquered Nedin and Galloway by scores 6-4, 7-5. Avila and Sutton, local doubles lost to Robertson and Gallin by scores of 7-5, 10-8.

The next tourney in which the Richmond Union high school tennis team will compete will be held against Piedmont high school on the local city hall courts.

Although only winning one set yesterday against the Berkeley team the local high school boys showed plenty of promise and should have a good season in their first year's competition in the Alameda County Athletic league.

The Richmond Union high school tennis teams being coached by Clifford Fallon, veteran high school tennis athlete.

The GREEN GODDESS
by LOUISE JORDAN MILN

Copyright, 1922, by Frederick A. Stokes Company

"The Green Goddess," starring George Arliss, is a Warner Bros. Vitaphone picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

A Himalayan fog forces Dr. Basil Traherne to bring his airplane to earth in a rocky Himalayan fastness which turns out to be the kingdom of Rukh. Major Anthony Crespin and his wife, Lucilla, Traherne's passengers, are estranged. The Raja of Rukh receives them in a friendly spirit, but it develops that three of his half-brothers are under sentence of death in India for murder. Crespin is jealous and the two men are kept from quarreling only by the presence of Lucilla. They begin to suspect their host of sinister intentions and urge him to supply them with transport to reach India.

"Then," Crespin muttered impatiently, "the upshot of all this palaver is that you propose to hold us as hostages, to exchange for your brothers?"

"That is not precisely the idea, my dear sir." The Raja spoke with great courtesy. "My theologians do not hold that an exchange is what the Goddess decrees. Nor, to be quite frank, would it altogether suit my book."

"Not to get your brothers back again?" Lucilla exclaimed incredulously.

"You may have noted in history, Madame," he replied with a smile, "that family affection is seldom the strong point of princes. Is it not Pope who remarks on their lack of enthusiasm for a 'brother

"I may have news for you."

tear the throne'? My sons are mere children, and, were I to die—we are all mortal—there might be trouble about the succession. In our family uncles seldom love nephews."

"So you would raise no finger to save your brothers?" the Englishwoman asked him in horror.

"That is not my only reason," Rukh said with a smile. "Supposing it possible that I could help the Government of India into giving up my relatives, do you think it would sit calmly down under the humiliation? No, no, dear lady. It might wait a few years to find some decent pretext, but assuredly we should have a punitive expedition. It would cost thousands of lives and millions of money, but what would that matter? Prestige would be restored, and I should end my days in a maisonette at Monte Carlo. It wouldn't suit me at all. Hitherto I have escaped the notice of your Government by a policy of masterly inactivity, and I propose to adhere to that policy."

"Then," Crespin broke in, "I don't see how—"

And Traherne, speaking at the same time, said, "Surely you don't mean—"

"We are approaching the crux of the matter," Rukh returned, "a point you may have some difficulty in appreciating. I would beg you to remember that though I am what is commonly called an autocrat, there is no such thing under the sun as real despotism. All government is government by consent of the people. It is very stupid of them to consent—but they do. I have studied the question and I assure you that, though I have absolute power of life and death over my subjects, it is only their acquiescence that gives me that power. If I defied their prejudices or their passions, they could upset my throne tomorrow."

"Will you be so kind as to come to the point, sir?" stormed Crespin, angrily.

"Gently, Major!" Rukh said soothingly. "We shall reach it soon enough." He turned to Lucilla. "Please remember, too, Madam, that autocracy is generally a theocracy to boot, and mine is a case in point. I am a slave to theology. The clerical party can do what it pleases with me, for there is no other party to oppose it. True I am my own Archbishop of Canterbury—but I have a terribly exacting Archbishop of York. I fear I may have to introduce you to him tomorrow."

Lucilla Crespin lifted a drawn face, but she looked him straight in the eyes—and there were both defiance and entreaty in hers. "You are torturing us, Your Highness. Like my husband, I beg you to come to the point."

"The point is, dear lady," the Raja answered her sadly, "that the theology on which, as I say, my whole power is founded, has not yet emerged from the Mosaic stage of development: It demands an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth—"

There was a pause.

"—a life for a life."

There was a pause—longer, tenser, a terrible hopeless pause. Crespin sagged in his chair, his miserable eyes fixed on his wife's face, seeing nothing, thinking of nothing but her. She sat where she was, statue-like in her motionless horror. Traherne never lowered his look from Rukh's expressionless face.

Dr. Traherne spoke first. "You mean to say—"

"Unfortunately I do," the Raja replied.

CHAPTER XXII

"YOU would kill us—?" Lucilla panted hoarsely.

"Not I, Madam; the clerical party," Rukh said suavely. "And only if my brothers are executed. If not, I will merely demand your word of honor that what has passed between us shall never be mentioned to any human soul—and you shall go free."

"But," Major Crespin exclaimed, "if your brother assassins are hanged—as assuredly they will be—you will put us to death in cold blood!"

"Oh, not in cold blood, Major," the Raja interjected. "There is nothing cold-blooded about the clerical party when 'white goats,' as their phrase goes, are to be sacrificed to the Goddess."

"Does your Goddess demand the life of a woman?" Traherne asked it sternly, and his eyes were scalpels.

"Well," the Raja of Rukh said with slow significance, "on that point she might not be too exacting. If Madam would be so gracious as to favor me with her—society—"

Lucilla Crespin gazed at him speechless, for a moment, then realized fully his meaning, and sprang up with a cry of rage and anger.

The Raja smiled. Crespin sprang to the side of his wife, threw one hand on her quivering shoulders, drew and leveled his revolver. "Another word, and I shoot you like a dog," he hissed. He was sober now.

"Oh, no Major—that wouldn't help a bit," the Raja laughed genially. "You would only be torn to pieces instead of being beheaded. Besides, I have had your teeth drawn. That precaution was taken while you were at your bath."

Crespin took his hand from Lucilla's shoulder, and examined his revolver carefully and flung it down with an oath.

The Englishwoman turned to her men. "Promise me," she said almost fiercely, "promise you won't leave me alone! If we must die, let me die first—" and her voice broke on the words.

They nodded. Neither could speak.

But the Raja spoke. "The order of the ceremony, Madam," he said with courteous, princely insolence, "will not be at these gentlemen's choice." She hid her face in her hands, and stood cowering in distraught despair. "But do not be alarmed. No constraint shall be put upon your inclinations. Dr. Traherne reproached me with lack of consideration for your sex and I then hinted, if you so pleased, your sex should meet with every consideration. I gather that you do not so please? Well, I scarcely hoped you would—I do not press the point. None the less, the suggestion remains open. And now, I'm afraid I've been talking a great deal. You must be fatigued," he added solicitously.

At that moment the major-domo stood at a door, holding a salver with a slip of paper folded on it. The Raja gestured him nearer, advanced to meet him, and took up the paper, and scanned it thoughtfully. But his face did not change.

"Ah, this is interesting!" he told them. "If you will wait a few minutes, I may have some news for you. Excuse me." He bowed as he left them.

They stayed as if frozen, where he had left them, and gazed at each other in speechless horror.

"And we were saved this morning—only for this!" Lucilla sobbed brokenly at last.

"Courage!" Traherne said, with his soul in his eyes. "There must be some way out."

"The whole thing's a damned piece of bluff!" Crespin cried with a gust of hysterical laughter. "And the scoundrel almost took me in."

Lucilla caught suddenly at her throat, catching her locket convulsively in her icy fingers. "Oh," she sobbed, stumbling down on to the big ottoman in a passion of grief, "my babies! Oh, my babies! Never to see them again! To leave them all alone in the world! My Ronny! My little Iris! What can we do? Antony! Dr. Traherne! Think of something—something—" as he was taken in a wheel chair from the train. Despite his serious condition when he returned, he rallied, and held on grimly for a time.

NATION MOURNS PASSING OF TAFT

With the passing of Taft, Calvin Coolidge is the only surviving ex-president.

Long Career

To Taft, however, was vouchsafed an unusually long and active public career, after he left the White House ,which was in 1913.

Taft died suddenly. As neither of his physicians, Doctors Thomas A. Clayton and Francis R. Hagner, could be located immediately the nurse telephoned for another doctor.

He arrived in about 15 minutes and pronounced Taft dead.

Family At Bedside

The end came peacefully with Mrs. Taft and several members of the family grouped about his bedside.

Dr. Clayton arrived at the bedside a few minutes after he died.

Mrs. Taft and Helen Taft Manning, the chief justice's daughter, were at the bedside. Other members of the famil have been summoned.

Funeral Pending

Supreme Court officials immediately notified other justices of the death and they are expected to meet later to arrange plans for the funeral.

It is likely that Taft, as a former president as well as ex-chief justice, will lie in state in the rotunda of the Capitol or in the Supreme Court chambers, where the symbol of death now appears in a black crepe cloth draped over the chair of Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford who died only a few hours before Taft.

The official announcement of Taft's death was issued in the form of a statement from his physicians and given out by the White House. It read:

"Chief justice died at 5:19 p. m. A sudden change in his condition occured at 4:45 p. m., from which he failed to rally."

Signed—Drs. Clayton and Hagner.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.

U. S. JUSTICE TERRY SANFORD DIES SUDDENLY AT CAPITAL

court, Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, upon his 89th birthday.

Sanford, who was appointed by President Harding in 1923 after a long career on the Tennessee federal bench, was considered perhaps the most genial of the members of the rather dignified and austere body, and was popular with them. He was of the old southern type, with a Van Dyke beard, and presented a dignified appearance.

Rites Pending

No funeral services will be held here. His body will be taken to Knoxville, his birthplace, and former home, on a train leaving here at 10:45 tomorrow night. The train is due to arrive there at 1:40 Monday afternoon. The body will be taken immediately to the cemetery for burial in the family plot beside his daughter, Dorothy. Services will be held at the cemetery chapel.

An honorary escort from the Supreme Court will accompany the body, consisting of Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices McReynolds, Butler and Stone, and a representative of the court marchal's office. The jurists sister, the wife of Representative Hubert F. Fisher of Tennessee, will accompany the body.

The chair of the dead justice, on the north end of the Supreme bench was draped in black tonight.

Justice Holmes will open the court, alone, Monday, formally announcing the death of Sanford and then adjourn, probably until Wednesday.

Wife At Bedside

Justice Sanford's widow, whom he married in Knoxville in 1891, was at his side when he died, as was Dr. Thompson and Mrs. Sutherland, wife of Associate Justice Sutherland, who had hurried to the Sanford home when she learned of the jurist's attack. His daughter, Mrs. George Milne Cameron, of Kirkland Lake, Canada, now is in Florida.

His death creates the second vacancy on the Supreme court bench within little more than a month. Taft's resignation was presented by his son, Robert A. Taft, to President Herbert Hoover on February 3, while his father was at Asheville, N. C., in a vain effort to recover his failing strength.

The president, who filled that vacancy immediately by appointment of Charles Evans Hughes, now must fill another. There was no indication at the White House today when the appointment would be announced.

Boasted Of Health

Sanford's associates were in ignorance of his sudden fatal attack as they gathered about their table at the capitol this morning to discuss pending cases. He was missed, but no alarm was felt as he had notified his colleagues he might be absent because of a tooth ache.

Sanford rather boasted about his good health to his colleagues and apparently was feeling all right, outside of the tooth ache, when he started to the capitol this morning. He stopped at the office of his dentist, Dr. Arthur B. Crane, and collapsed soon after he had taken his place in the chair, but before the doctor had begun any work.

The justice showed further signs of distress soon afterward and was removed to an anteroom. Dr. Thompson injected a hypodermic. He remained with the jurist for half an hour and then called in an assistant, Dr. Richard Martin, who was instructed to remove Sanford to his home if he showed any sign of sinking.

Held U. S. Post

Shortly afterward the associate justice became worse and was taken to his home where he died at 11:50.

Sanford was federal judge of the eastern and middle Tennessee districts in 1923 when he was named to the Supreme Court by President Harding. He was appointed to judgeship by President Roosevelt in 1908.

Prior to that time, he had served here as assistant attorney general in 1907-08.

Born In South

Sanford was born at Knoxville, Tenn., July 23, 1865. He was graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1883, received an A.B. degree from Harvard in 1885 and a law degree there in 1889. He practiced law at Knoxville from 1889 to 1907, when he was appointed to the assistant attorney generalship here.

He has held many honorary positions, including trustee of the University of Tennessee, president of the Tennessee Bar association, president of the Alumni association of the University of Tennessee and also of Harvard; vice-president of the Harvard Law school association, and the American Bar association, and chairman of the board of trustees of the George Peabody college for teachers. He was also author of a book, "Blount College and the University of Tennessee."

Sanford was aligned with the conservative element on the bench.

President Hoover was shaking hands with a long line of callers at the White House, when notified of the justice's death.

Speculation as to his successor brought such names as Owen J. Roberts, chief of government counsel in the oil cases; Judge Benjamin Cardoza, of the State Supreme Court of New York; Representative James M. Beck, Pennsylvania, Solicitor General of the United States; Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the Massachusetts supreme court, and John W. Davis, among others.

Two senators' names were also brought into the discussion—William E. Borah of Idaho and Chas. McNary of Oregon.

Y DINNER TO BE HELD MONDAY

Percy Canford, president of the Y. M. C. A. board of directors, will preside tomorrow night at the annual dinner of the Richmond Y. M. C. A. The dinner will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

Dr. Tully Knowles, president of the College of the Pacific, will be the speaker of the evening. His topic will be "The Youth Movement."

Reynold Carlson, director of the local "Y" will give a report of the activities of the Richmond organization during the past year.

A Pioneer club initiation will be presented by the Lone Eagle Pioneers under the direction of Cecil Bowman.

Willie Hillier, Y. M. D. president, and George Degnan, president of the Boys' Hi-Y, will speak on the activities of their clubs.

The Y. M. D. vocal trio will present several popular selections during the dinner. The members of the trio are Walter Moore, Clarence Brown and Clare Thomas.

Community singing will be led by Willie Hillier.

The annual "Y" dinner has always been of stellar importance among the year's activities of the organization. Great preparations have been made by the various divisions of the Y. M. C. A. for tomorrow night's event, and a large gathering of members and their friends are expected to be present at the affair.

Agents Probe Liquor Leakage

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—UP—Federal prohibition agents today began an investigation on the reports that there has been a leakage in seized whiskey stored in the Lawrence warehouse at Second and Brannan streets.

It was believed only stills were housed in the warehouse, when the reports were first received by Col. George Seaver, chief enforcement officer. Storage of liquor in commercial warehouses is prohibited by government regulations.

A large quantity of whiskey seized in raids had been stored in a private warehouse without inspection. Dry officials were prompted to order every barrel tapped and tested because of the possibility that water had been substituted for the liquor.

Lone Eagles Postpone Swim

A swim at the Berkeley Y. M. C. A. scheduled for last night by the Lone Eagle Pioneers has been postponed until some future date.

The club is directed by Cecil Bowman.

Martinovich To Leave For Europe Soon

Louis Martinovich, well known Richmond restaurateur, formerly one of the owners of the Key Lunch room has again heard the urge of travel and will leave some time this week to visit his old home in Austria.

Martinovich, while in business here made a wide circle of friends who will be sorry to hear that he is leaving the city but will send with him all the good wishes of an interesting and successful voyage. He recently sold his business to his partner.

Many of the boys who used to slide on a stool around the midnight hour will miss the smiling face of the obliging Louie who concoted savory dishes for them that wouldn't make them have nightmares. Many interesting stories are stored away in the memory of Louie. These stories range all the way from the boys who stayed out late because they were in the "dog house" or flashes of the latest news from the newspaper men who dropped in for a late supper or early breakfast after grinding out the day's news.

Martinovich recently returned fro ma trip to Mexico, where he spent several weeks in visiting interesting points on the western coast of the southern republic.

Some time this week Martinovich will bid farewell and start for New York by train. After spending a short time in the eastern metropolis, the traveler will leave on a fast liner to take him to the shores of Europe.

Although many of his friends expect him to return here, Martonovich was noncommittal on his plans yesterday.

Eagle Scouts To Enter Contest

Three Richmond Eagle Scouts will compete for a place in the Ansel Hall expedition, according to R. F. Cox, local Scout executive.

Lloyd Hall, James Vanoncini and John Garside have entered the competition'

One Eagle Scout from Richmond will be selected at an examination at the Scout headquarters Tuesday night before an examining committee that includes Thomas G. Gray, Dr. L. H. Fraser, Theodore Madsen and Cox.

The Scouts will be examined on their ability to speak before a group and they will be expected to write an essay on the 15 national parks of the United States.

The Ansel Hall expedition includes a trip that will last throughout the summer and will take the winners through all the national parks in the Rocky mountains.

BORDER PATROL WAITS BATTLE WITH RUNNERS

member, was shot through the foot Tuesday night.

The smugglers had been surprised after they landed their goods on American soil. They were driven off and their contraband captured.

Battle Starts

Determined to retrieve the liquors, they attacked the entrenched patrolmen. Although outnumbered three to one, the patrolmen drove off the smugglers.

The battle occurred directly south of the El Paso, city-county hospital. For more than 40 minutes the two forces exchanged rifle and pistol fire. It was not learned if any of the smugglers were wounded.

Shots Exchanged

In another battle this week, patrolmen exchanged shots with five smugglers in a small settlement on the outskirts of the city. Bullets splattered the walls of adobe houses.

The smugglers dropped their liquors and fled. Later they again opened fire at the patrolmen as the contraband was being carted away.

INDUSTRY AND THE CENSUS

Richmond is justly proud of her industrial position on San Francisco bay and wants the world to know the facts in full. One way for us to attract new industries is to make much of the facts which have already drawn to our city such substantial manufacturing concerns, and the method of accomplishing this is to give full support to the forthcoming census.

The census will be more than a counting of noses to determine the population. It will be an enumeration of many other facts. For example, every manufacturer whose output is $5000 or more a year is required to report his business. Questions will include: Kind of factory; number of employes; amount and kind of power used; capital invested; salaries paid; cost of materials; value of product, and other questions. All information will be held in strict confidence.

Richmond's industrial position can only be strengthened by whole-hearted cooperation in the census. We want more industries, and when these government statistics are compiled we can use them to help attract such industries. Let's all get behind the census.
